Muslim families regularly visit the mosque to worship Allah, read the Qu'ran, to pray and meet other Muslims.

Muslims read the Qu'ran. They use a special stand when they are reading it.

For Muslims, the baby naming ceremony is called an aqiqah. As soon as the baby is born, Adhan (a special prayer) is whispered into their right ear. Aqiqah takes place seven days after the baby is born. The babies' head is shaved and the hair is weighed. Some money is given to charity equal to the weight of the hair.

Muslims observe 5 pillars. Some they do everyday, some are every year and some once in their lifetime.
